NOY AID.

The copies of telegrams and reports sent by Collector Clarke to Commissioner Ranm and forwarded by the latter to the house and forwarded by the latter to the house of representatives in response to its resolution of inquiry, disclose a series of representations that would read like romances if published in these columns. The passing altercations between moonshiners and revenue spies are magnified into pitched battles, and the exploits of the undaunted officials are so magnified in their reports as to read like desperate battles on behalf of high and patriotic duty. The revenue officials have a duty to perform, and every good citizen should aid them in the prompt and safe discharge of that duty. That they encounter resistance is no new thing in the history of the revenue service of this or other nations. But because of this resistance in special cases they are not authorized to use their official character and government funds to give weight and currency to wholesale slanders against a people.

There is reason to believe that even Commissioner Raum has become

A DOUTING THOMAS, and lost confidence in the wild and over-wrought reports of revenue troubles in north Georgia. He has sent out special agents to inquire into the affairs of the district, and make true reports of the con-dition of the service in the mountains. These agents came to Atlanta and prepared to go to the mountains and investigate the situation. Hearing of the project, District Attorney Fairow and Marshal Fitzsimons Attorney Farrow and Marshal Fitzsimons suggested to the attorney-general that a commissioner be appointed to go with the special agents, and asked leave for themselves to be of the expedition. Both these suggestions were favorably considered by the attorney-general, and it was so undered

On Monday morning, in court, Judge Woods, of the circuit court, appointed Henry L. Carrow, of Union county, to be the commissioner in question. The special agents sent out by Raum are Jacob Wagner, Horace Kellogg, S. A. Whitfield and W. H. Chanman.

A court of Inquiex.

They are to thoroughly and fully investigate the causes and extent of the troubles in the counties of Fannin, Union, Towns and Rabun, and report their findings. These are the four counties which Collector Clarke and his deputies have declared to be in "open rebellion" against the government.

It is reported that Cox is very much depressed in spirits over the result of this last effort for a new hearing. He had hopes that he would again be allowed to test his cause before a jury of his country. He does not believe that he ought to suffer for his act, and he still thinks he might justify it in another trial. He gives no intimation of weakness, but rather feels that he has not had a fair chance for his liberty.

It is thought he will now endeavor, on account of his beloved wife and children, to so deport himself in his service as to win the confidence and sympathy of the people, and in time procure pardon for his violation of the law. In that future elemency he has now to center all his hopes.

The others were to go yesterday. The expedition is accompanied by a staff reporter of The Constitution, specially detailed to watch the investigation and faithfully report all its details. The investigation is one of grave importance to the people of the counties interested and will either vindicate them from the slanders heaped upon them by interested spies and officials, or prove them lawless and deserving of the rigorous policy advocated by the revenue men. Those who know the people of the mountains have little doubt of the issue of a full and honest investigation of their conduct. Any other sort of investigation will be detected and exposed.

ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1880.

General Phil Cook Endeavoring to get a Appropriation to Olean Out and Im-prove the Georgia Rivers-Mr. Blount's Determination.

Washington May 4.—This session of con-gress is drawing to a close, and it is very probable the 15th of June will witness an djournment. Both branches of congress are busily engaged on the appropriation bills, and such other measures as require present attention. Dr. Felton has just been before the con mittee in the interest of the Coosa and Dostanaula rivers, advocating an appropriaion for each. The committee, after hearing Dr. Felton, agreed to report a bill appropriating $75,000 for improving the Coosa and $3,000 for the Oostanaula river.

General Phil Cook also appeared before the committee on commerce in favor of appropriating money to clean out and im prove the rivers of Georgia. He presented in his argument an array of facts and statistics that show how little we have re-ceived, and the necessity for a more liberal It was the subject of comment upon the streets that the above opinion was delivered by Chief-Justice Warner. It will not be forgotten that on the occasion when the supreme court affirmed the judgment in the case. Chief-Justice Warner delivered a somewhat startling dissenting opinion. He disagreed with the majority of of the bench, and expressed his dissent in terms of no little warnath. It was on this account that many persons thought there was a chance of a favorable decision in this last motion by Cox's counsel. The compoallowance in the future. The points he presented in favor of the appropriations for the rivers and harbors of the state were briefly these: He claimed that the rivers were the highways of the people, enabling them to transport the products of their farms or forests to the coast cities. He showed the amount expended by the federal government from 1789 to 1878 for canals in land grants 4,405,986 acres-in money $9,197,473. For roads $17,564,420, railroads $84,627,189, and land grants for railroads about two hundred and fifty million acres of the finest land on the continent. All of

was a chance of a favorable decision in this last motion by Cox's counsel. The composition of the court having changed by the retirement of Judge Bleckley and the succession of Judge Crawford, some were induced to think there was a chance for Cox in an agreement by Judge Crawford in the views of Judge Warner's dissenting opinion. This proved not to be the case, and the court stands unanimous, it appears, in denying the mandamus upon the grounds assigned by counsel for Cox. The decision of the supreme court will, in a few days, become the judgment of the court below. of the finest and on the continent. All of this sum was given to private corporations. During the same period (from 1789 to 1878), $66,029,118 has been spent on the rivers and harbors of the country. Of this amount $533,473 has been spent in Georgia, notwithstanding her seaport —Savannah—is only second to New York, on the Atlantic, as an export market. These figures were carefully prepared by General Cook, and presented to the committee with great force and earnestness. It will be readily seen, the railroads have gobbled up the greater part of the appropriations, and these roads were built in the north and west. The appropriations for of all the legal resources left to Cox, except the one frail chance of an executive pardon. Of that there is said to be no hope or ex-Of that there is said to be no hope or expectation. There appears now no alternative for him; he must go to the penitentiary and begin that term of penal service which the law has said shall end only with his life. It cannot be but a few days until he is called upon to meet that consequence of his unfortupate act.

The idea of attempting to take his case to the supreme court of the United States has, we learn, been abandoned. It is said there are no provisions of law under which a process could issue that would bring his case before that high tribunal. Hence that hope, too, has vanished with the others.

HOW COX BEARS IT. have gobbled up the greater part of the appropriations, and these roads were built in the north and west. The appropriations for improving rivers have been spent in the north, and every little branch and creek has had the aid of government money. General Cook feels that if congress will awaken to the injustice that has been done the south in the way of appropriations, and can secure for Georgia a divided share of the government funds to be spent on rivers, that a great many streams in the state will be made navigable. This accomplished, will go far towards setting the much mooted question of railroad tariffs. With all of our rivers navigable, railroads will no longer enjoy a monopoly. General Cook is giving his attention to this matter, and hopes for good results. Georgia is entitled to a more liberal appropriation. Every tenfoot ditch in New York and Pennsylvania is cleaned out and kept in order with government money. It is time we were deriving some of the benefits of being in the union, and General Cook is bent on urging it in the way of appropriations for our rivers.

The Constitution centaining the card of dress this fall was received, and the sentiments expressed in its editorial columns on the subject, heartily endorsed by the Georgians in Washington. The letter of Mr. Blount took every one by surprise. He has just arrived at that position in congress where he can do Georgia most good, and he cannot be spared. Without any desire to dictate or suggest to his district, I cannot but hope they will not hear to his retirement—if not for their own sake, for the good of Georgia. He stands to-day the most influential man in congress from the south. When a democratic president is elected this fall he will be in a position to do more for Georgia than any dozen men the sixth district can send to Washington. By attention to duty and steadfastness to principle, Mr. Blount occupies a position here that it will take years for any other man to acquire. I hope he will forego his determination to withdraw from public service, and if he does not that the district he has so ably represented will insist on his return to congress. This wish is suggested by an earnest desire for Georgia's interest. The sixth district holds the man who can best contribute to Georgia's interest. The sixth district holds the man who can best contribute to Georgia's success here and it would be an act of injustice not to return him.

C. H. W. THE DEFICIENCY BILL Mr. Hayes Sends it Back to the House Mr. Hayes Sends it Back to the House Without His Signature.

Washinston, May 4.—The president to-day signed the army appropriation bill and returned the deficiency bill to the house with the following veto message:

The bill appropriates about $3,000,000, of which over $600,000 is for the payment of fees of United States marshals and of general and special deputy-marshals earned during the current fiscal year and their incidental expenses. The appropriations made in the bill are needed to carry on the operations of the government and to fulfill its obligations for the payment of money long since due to its officers for services and expenses essential to the execution of their duties under the laws of the United States. Mr. Resgan, chairman of the committee on commerce, reported the river and harbor appropriation bill, and it was ordered printed and recommitted.

The president's veto of the immediate deficiency appropriation bill was received and read. It was instened to without manifestation of approval or disapproval. Mr. Cobb, of Indiana, moved its reference to the committee on appropriations, and that the bill lie on the table.

Mr. Whithorne, of Tennessee, moved its reference to the judiciary committee. While, from cursory reading of the message, he felt inclined to agree with the reasoning of the president as against the policy of riders, yet he believed the president had gone a step too far, and invaded the privileges of the house. He subsequently withdrew the motion, and Mr. Cobb's motion was agreed to. The effect of leaving the bill or the table is merely to postpone its consideration until the house sees lit to call it up.

Mr. Money. of Mississippi, moved to increase the appropriation for mail transportation on railroads $500,000. Rejected.

Mr. Bunnell, of Minnesota, moved to increase it to $9,800,000.

Mr. Blackburn opposed the amendment, showing that the expenses of this service for the first half of the current fiscal year were but $4,200,000.

No quorum voted on the amendment and the committee rose without action on the bill and the house adjourned.

At a cabinet meeting, Mr. Evarts read a communication from the United States minister to Mexico, stating that two Mexican officers pursued two deservers across the border into Texas, fired upon them and accidentally shot a female; that the officers were arrested for violating both federal and state laws. It is also recommended that the officers be released from any inconvenience or punishment that might follow, as the officers were acting without intent to violate the law. It was decided that as far as the federal jurisdiction goes that they be released, leaving it to the state of Texas to decide as to the violation of the state law. to the violation of the state law.

KINDLY COMMENTS.

The expressions of the general public yesterday morning, after reading the moving details of Hoyle's tragic end, were a convincing evidence of the personal esteem in which he was held by his fellow-citizens. There were men who read his letters and laid away the paper unable to finish their perusal because of tears that dimmed their eyes. Nothing but kindly words were said of him, and his memory will be cherished by many as that of a brave, true friend, despite his faults and errors. The lesson of his death will not be lost. It will show how easily it is to fall when once the grasp on easily it is to fall when once the grasp on strict adherence to duty is permitted to weaken. If Sam Hoyle had been less kind and more selfish, he would not have overstepped the law and brought himself to ruin.

will fall far short of the public's estimate. We learn that the state was to pay two-thirds of the expenses and the county one-third. The state first advanced $600 and a second time $500; the county advanced $330 and a second time $100; making a total of $1,530. Captain Starnes brought back about $150 and Mr. Collier probably a like sum; so that the total expenset o county and state will reach in the neighborhood of $1,200. The attorneys employed on the part of the state at Los Angeles were paid as their services were required and the fees averaged $25 for each appearance in court. Mr. Collier will, at the proper time, present an itemized account of all the expenditures incurred by him; as also will Captain Starnes.

The credit of Georgia was established. I do not say that Governor Colquitt had a merely worldly and political motive in his mission to the people of New York—very far otherwise! But I do say that it is not left entirely in this universe, that "the devil takes care of his own." The credit of Georgia was established! That is a fact! The profane will account for it and deem of it as they list—economists may account for it upon whatever principles. I choose, in all circumstances to accept it as part of the good providence of the God of the peacemaker. Every description of bends for which Georgia is bound is at par, and some of them bearing premium rates, that excite the admiration of our sister states, and attract investments from all quarters. the admiration of our sister states, and attract investments from all quarters.

Through the efforts of Governor Colquitt and under his skillful management nearly $500,000 from unexpected and extraordinary sources have been covered into the state treasury. In addition to this a principle has been established which materially increases the annual revenues of the state.

It is not the least of his merits that the governor has abounded in public labors in behalf of our struggling agricultural classes and of direct exportation and importation.

These themes are to omultiplie i, weighty and complicated for this letter, but I cannot forbear to add that for years past Governor Colquitt has been in the councils of the discurranced farmers of our state, electring and sustaining is all ways. "In season and out of season." Those acqualated with all the facts cannot doubt that it is largely because this great-hearted, energetic, quiet-going, level-headed man has labored in this province, within defatigable seal and industry, and signal ability, that we see Georgia to-day proudly abreast with the most advanced state in the union in her matchiles agricultural enterprise and enlightened methods.

Or whisper what you please,
You do but fan his glory still
By whistling up a breeze."

No name of those in the long list of her executives has been sy vilely assailed. The explanation is easy to the historical student. The fate of Aristides is illustrative. He was condemned because people called him "the Just." itilate's wife expressed the popular verdet when she called Christ "that just man." Colquitt's type of manhood is too exalted for the admiration of men who are not willing to imitate his virtues.

It is pleasant to know, however, that the sym-carefully in small things, has he watched day and night over the interests of his people. When he came into his office, the clouds and discouragements of the war were still lowering upon the prospects of the state. She shared the common fortune of her sister southern states. Her name was "cast out as evil." There were only bitterness, "all uncharitableness," and denuciation for her from those sections of the union not allied to us by a fellow-feeling, growing out of common suffering. "Fraternal sympathy" was a myth and a word of mockery.

Governor Colquitt went to these people upon their own invitation. He carried the great heart and the fearless heart of a real Christian statesman. Never, by so much as a jot or a tittle, did he abate his self-respect or the claims of Georgia to be esteemed the peer of any state in this union. He looked them in their eyes. ATLANTA. GA., MAY 5, 1880. MAYOR KALLOCH is to be thoroughly investigated, and that, too, by men who dislike him. His acts and utterances have alike been objectionable, and it is very probable that he will go to join Dennis Kearney.

THE letter to Governor Brown, in this issue of the Constitution, will repay perusal. It presents with classical taste and marked ability the virtues of Governor Colquitt's character and the merits of his administration.

He argues at length against the use of riders, when the ink is scarcely dry of his signature to a bill that contains an important rider. The bill that he returns contains a very mild rider. It simply says that the United States judges shall select political deputy marshals equally from the two parties. It commanded the support of several republicans, notably Mr. Garfield, who defended it on the ground that it would be a limitation of a judicial inthat the people will get fair play. But if to rest on that Mr. Tuggle's compilation the house will pass the deficiency bill the marshals and consequently without a rider. If this plan is adopted, a bill relating exclusively to the pay and duties of the marshals will be put through bribe without limit voters by employing them as deputy marshals and paying em out of the treasury, and the result will doubtless be a conflict. It is, however, only the principle that is now at stake; for the vetoed bill relates to the current fiscal year which will be ended with the month of June. There may the next fiscal year is taken up. Such struggle is inevitable; for the president has clearly taken the ground that his party shall control the polls.

Howard's letter in Philadelphia Times.

That Mr. Tilden himself is in a disturbed condition of mind there is ample evidence. He confines h mself now almost constantly to his home, on the parlor floor of which, in the rear, is an enormous library, utilized by a corps of clerks, secretaries and attendents, who are constantly examining books, marking papers, filing documents and serding packages of this, that and the other to various sections of the country. I doubt if there is a detective bureau in the world more admirably organized than that which, centring in Grammery park, conveys to the interest ed cipher.r all manner of secrets and all kinds of information. While it is utterly impossible for the average visitor to gain access to Mr. Tilden's presence, he is censelessly occupied in entertaining, listening to, advising with and instructing his friends and those in his employ. No busier man lives than he, and how his attenuated physique sustains the labor imposed upon it by his restless, energetic and suggestive brain is ranges rattle to his door, a stream of eager and in-terested parties constantly tag at his bell, the pa-tience and slippers of his servant are well nigh-exhausted, and every evidence of a brisk and des-perate campaign is afforded to the neighbors, or to such as care to put a watch upon his move-ments.

The Field Against Tilden.

The Field Against Tilden.

Baltimore American.

Speaker Randall's confidence that Tilden will be nominated at Cincinnati on the first ballot may be accepted as proof that the sage of Grammercy Park is making a determined struggle for that honor, and has assured his friends of his intention not to withdraw from the fight, but there are as yet no facts at hand which seem to warrant the inference that he will be successful. It is true that netther Bayard nor Thurman display the activity that might be expected of them, and that the Hancock campaign has thus far proved a dismal failure, but this very absence of personal opposition is liable to prove the greatest danger with which Mr. Tilden will have to contend, since it will make it all the easier for the anti-Tilden party to concentrate its strength on a single candidate at Cincinnata Instead of distributing it among three or four rivals. It will be time enough to draw conclusions when the southern democrats have been heard from.

It looks now as if there would be votes enough at Chicago to nominate Grant on the first ballot; but the bulk of those votes will come from states that are not republican. Interesting Account of the Healing of a Broken Leg. Messrs, Lothbors & Pinkham, Druggists—Dear sirs: On the 23-1 of August, 1877, I had the misformer of haxing my leg broken, in front of William se ns' dry goods store, by a case of goods being thrown on me. The bone was set by a physician of this place. Upon removing the splints, sores broke out from my knee to the heel, and several physicians called It various velus, and ordered me to wear rubber stockings. A fire wearing out about $25 worth of different makes without any sensor of any curse. I bought the Curicura Remsabout $5 worth of different makes without any signs of any cure. I bought the Curicura Remspires for the purpose, as I expressed it at the time, to be humbarged again. Before half had been used I was astonished to see the sores heal up one by one, and now not one sore is to be seen. I recommended the same to a neighbori glady who had been troubled for years with a sore wrist. After using hundreds of remedies, she is completely cured, Respectful y yours, DOVER, N. H. —Milledgeville Union and Recorder: We saw a humming bird's nest a few days ago for the first time. It was a wonderful piece of mechanism. It was as tupon a limb of a tree the size of a man's thunb, was coated outside with the moss of an oak, so as perfectly to represent a knot. It was about the size of a large hickory nut, an inch high, and constructed of cotton and hair. It contained two little white eggs, about the size of a common snap-bean.

—Milledgeville Union and Recorder: The "independents," so-cailed, are queer people. They abuse organized democrats for being under "ring" rule and the crack of the party whip, when every mother's son of them is but the echo of some small-potato politician with no fame and less claim to it beyond a neighborhood notoriety. If the regular democrats are "organized," then the independents must be disorganizers. They are in fact more completely under the lash of leaders than are the poor negroes they delude and laugh at.

—Lumpkin Independent: Considerable excitement was created among the colored

Ish of leaders than are the poor negroes they delude and laugh at.

—Lumpkin Independent: Considerable excitement was created among the colored people last week, occasioned by the report that the grand jury would indict all negroes who were living together as man and wife and who had never been married under a license from the ordinary. The excitement ran high and negroes who had been living together thirty years and had grown families obtained license and were duly joined according to law. During the days of slavery it was not customary for slaves to be married by license, and consequently a number of colored people are now living together who were never legally married. There was danger for some parties, out not the old couples who were married before the war.

—West Point Press: Hon. A. H. Cox and lady, of LaGrange, came dowr on Sunday and spent a day or two with friends in our little and the point pression of the paper party to assert the claim.

the old couples who were married before the war.

—West Point Press: Hon. A. H. Cox and lady, of LaGrange, came down on Sunday and spent a day or two with friends in our community. Mr. Cox needs no introduction to our people—we "raised" hum and have followed—his upward career with unflagging interest; and now that there is a prospect of his rising still higher—filling the broad arena for which his brilliant powers fit him—that interest increases. Troup is proud of her gifted young son, and we believe he will fill her highest expectations. Already his fame is as broad as the state and will one day, we predict, be wider still.

Mrs. Cox is a lady whose dignity, worth and accomplishments are recognized by all.

—Rome Courier: We learn that a negro man, John Ware living in the lower end of the county, made an assault upon a little white girl last Sunday evening, daughter of Mr. C. H. Barron. The little girl was going about sundown to her grandmother's, and in a lonely part of the road the negro the county, made an assault upon a little white girl last Sunday evening, daughter of Mr. C. H. Barron. The little girl was going about sundown to her grandmother's, and in a lonely part of the road the negro came out of the woods and catching her up in his arms started for the woods ordering her at the same time not to make any alarm, but her constant screams perhaps caused him to desist from his purpose, as he threw her down on the ground and ran off. The negro is about thirty years of age, and the little girl thirteen and small for her age. The negro has been arrested, and is in jail. A hearing of the case will be had Wednesday before Judge Towers. We are glad to see that the people of the county pay respect to the law in such cases, although the recent frequent occurrence of similar outrages is enough to make the blood boil.

There was a large crowd in attendance and quite a number of schools represented. The music was excellent, the repast splendid, and everything passed off harmoniously. Addresses were delivered by the following gentlemen: Rev. J. W. Lee, Rev. L. T. G. Powell. C. H. Hyde and C. W. Adamson. The next annual meeting of the association will be at Villa Rica, Carroll county, Georgia.

—The farmers are badly behind with their work in this section, owing chiefly to so much wet weather. There is considerable cotton yet to be planted in Carroll county, and if it don't clear up pretty soon it will be too late. The wheat crop is also being injured by the long continued rains, and will not make over a half crop unless we have a good portion of sunshine and dry weather between this and harvest. The fly has been very destructive on the wheat in some portions of the county. The peach crop was exclusely damaged by the late frost and we cannot calculate on anything like a half crop of peaches.

In accordance with the report of the com-mittee, consisting of the judges and repre-sentative of each of the fire organization. sentative of each of the fire organization of the city, Atlanta fire engine No. 1 was on the grounds in front of the capitol at three o'clock yesterday afternoon for the purpose of contesting for the prizes offered for mak-ing steam in the shortest time and throw-ing a stream of water the greatest distance Despite the fact that it was not generally known that the trial was to come off, a good crowd lined the sidewalks upon both side of the street in the vicinity where the en zine was located. The result was very satisfactory to No. but not at all so to No. 1. Steam was raised in 8:19, and water was thrown 230 feet. During the trial two sections of hose burst. AWARDING THE PRIZES.

The final contest having been concluded nothing remained to be done but to award the prizes to the successful competing fire companies. For this purpose, in accordmade in their report, which we have already given, representatives of all the successful companies, together with their friends, met at the hail of the Hook and Ladder fire company last evening at eight o'clock for the purpose of witnessing the delivery of the prizes to the successful companies and also to tender their congrat-ulations. The body was called to order by George Haney, chief of the Atlanta fire de-partment. Mayor W. L. Calboun, who had consented to deliver the prizes, was present and made the awards as follows: Hook and Ladder prize, consisting of one silver tea set (seven pieces) valued at $100

Second prize (distance), water set, valued at $50, to Tallulah No. 3.
The individual prize, D. H. Lougherty gold medal, to Frank Lester of No. 3.
Mayor Calhoun, in his peculiarly happy style, awarded the prizes. His remarks were well received and carnestly listened to by all present. He concluded his remarks by counseling the members of the department to avoid differences as much as possible. He knew that differences sometimes arose between firemen but that they did not amount to much as their warm friendship for each other always covered such not amount to much, as their warm friend-ship for each other always covered such differences up, and that when it came to an issue they, as one man, pulled together for the common good of all concerned. After the prizes were delivered the officers of the ccessful companies shouldered them and carried them away.

Explanation as to Bailroad Passenger and Freight Bates. As complaint has reached us that some of the railroads had quit the sale of 1,000 mile tickets and other low rate tickets, a reporter called at the office of the railroad company for information.

He was informed that the commission did not require the railroads to charge four cents per mile—that was only the maximum above which the roads could not charge. The roads were at perfect liberty charge. The roads were at perfect liberty to sell tickets as low as they pleased or give free tickets if they desired to. If the roads choose to charter trains or sell excursion or clergymen's or 1,000 mile tickets at less than 4 cents per mile, they can do so at any point on their roads without infringing on the rules of the commission. In fact the roads are just as free about passenger rates as they ever were, except they must keep under 4 cents per mile The roads need not charge the half cent
